Power On: Investing in a stronger, smarter grid

We are making investments in our delivery system to provide additional power to meet growing demand, increase reliability and accommodate growth and economic development throughout our service areas.

For example, we recently completed circuit upgrades in Williamson where we removed aging equipment, upgraded the existing transformer with a new, more efficient transformer and replaced the entire existing outdoor substation.

This project quadruples the station's current capacity to meet growing local energy demand.

"Our customers in Wayne County will benefit from improved reliability now that this substation has been replaced," said Walt Matyjas, RG&E senior director, electric operations.

Volunteers spent a sunny day improving the grounds of Homesteads for Hope.

Caring for our communities

We strive to give back to the communities that have supported us by undertaking responsibilities in the neighborhoods where we work. Recently, our employees spent a Day of Service volunteering at the Salvation Army and Homesteads for Hope.

Our teams sorted items in the pantry and prepared food bags for pick-up for the Emergency Family Services department of the Salvation Army. This department offers emergency food, clothing, hygiene items and much more.

We also worked on improvements at Homesteads for Hope, a nonprofit community farm for individuals with and without disabilities to learn, work, live, and grow.

Shop for your natural gas supplier

Shopping for a natural gas supplier may be another way to help manage your energy costs. Visit rge.com/choice for a supplier list and questions to ask them. With any supplier you choose, we will deliver your energy safely and reliably, and we are here – 24/7 – to respond to emergencies.
