Two new mobile substations added to our fleet

We have added two new mobile substations to our fleet, bringing the total up to 24 active mobile substations. These mobile substations will be used to ensure energy reliability for our nearly 1.3 million electric customers across New York state.

We use mobile substations for emergency outages, planned outages, or where additional energy load is needed.

Because the mobile substations can be easily transported, they are used throughout RG&E and NYSEG service areas as needed. Mobile substations are operated at sites from several hours to up to a year, depending on the type of need.

Powering hope for our communities

We don't just provide power to Upstate New York, we are also an active part of the communities we serve.

Our employees came together to donate food to families in our community impacted by the disruption of SNAP benefits. They collected more than 1,200 canned goods and raised more than $1,300 to give to Father Tracy Advocacy Center (FTAC).

This initiative was part of a greater Avangrid-wide effort across 27 offices in Connecticut, Maine, New York and Oregon for a total collection of more than 10,000 food items donated to 20 food pantries.

It's your choice

You can purchase your electricity and/or natural gas supply from us or a supplier, also known as an Energy Services Company (ESCO).

- Determine who you currently buy your electricity and/or natural gas supply from.
- Ask questions and compare supplier offers.
- Choose the best value for you.
